

Live Multi-Media Performance by Pioneering Artist Joan Jonas
Commissioned by TBA21—Academy
To Be Presented in Collaboration with Tate Modern on May 31, 2018

Part of Tate Modern's survey exhibition, Moving Off the Land. Oceans – Sketches and Notes activates the Turbine Hall with a multilayered tribute to the ocean

WHAT On May 31, artist Joan Jonas will give a compelling performance and mesmerizing tribute to the life and power of the ocean. Commissioned by TBA21—Academy and presented in Tate Modern's Turbine Hall as part of a survey exhibition dedicated to the artist's work, the multi-layered performance is Jonas' poetic response to the threatened marine cultures, endangered habitats, and rampant exploitation of our seas. Jonas will be joined onstage by celebrated composer and drummer Ikue Mori, who will perform her music live to accompany Jonas' piece.

Drawing upon various literary references and visual materials, Moving Off the Land. Oceans—Sketches and Notes brings together readings, dance, live drawing, and projections to portray the ocean's biodiverse inhabitants and its fragile balance of ecology. Video footage of underwater scenes creates the setting onto which multiple layers are added, including the artist's own collections of sketches and notes on the sea as well as readings from Herman Melville's celebrated novel Moby Dick, Sy Montgomery's exploratory essay Soul of an Octopus, and Italo Calvino's short story The Aquatic Uncle.

The oceans have been an ongoing thematic touchstone in Jonas' work, including her recent project for the U.S. Pavilion of the Venice Biennale in 2015. The 50-minute performance builds upon an earlier iteration of the work first presented as part of TBA21—Academy's Convening #2 in Kochi, India (2016).
